Gentlemen:-

We enclose herewith invoice for fencing erected at your property, the amount being as given us by the office of Carrere & Hastings, architects.

When we completed the work at your property our mechanics left in the basement a bundle of heavy drills which they were unable to take away.

We have requested the American Express Co. to call for these. Our people left the package properly marked with tags for forwarding to us at Garwood, N.J.

Will you kindly have same given the express company when they call.

Very truly yours,

Dear Sirs:-

Enclosed find express receipt for tools taken by the American Express Company's agent. When the agent called I was out for a few minutes, so all he took was just the sledge and the drill pins. There was a small roll of wire and a bundle of cut wire ties left behind. Kindly advise what disposition I will make of there. They do not represent much value, but I will await your decision.

Very truly yours,

Custodian.

Gentlemen:-

We write to thank you for your advices of the 31st ultimo. The material that the Express Company did not obtain will not be of sufficient value to have them return the second time.

Will you kindly throw it out or dispose of it as you see fit.

Yours very truly,
